

Preface

Over the past few days I've done some digging into the owners of Shane's current server. In this document I will detail my experiences with them. My takeaway is that Shane has hired a group of scammers posing as people who run Discord/Minecraft servers to run his new Discord server.

All chats mentioned in this will be attached, I have exported them as .html files.

Keep in mind that this document will be rather long, but I highly suggest reading through it.

Update 1/26/26: The Netherboat Network has banned me from their Discord server. It seems they have found this document.

DM Confrontations

It started when Hulenmall made a group chat of me, him, and server owner WestinGames (1/7). Some other people were present, but what we did was send DJKrabs' Big Event and some of Shane's allegations to the chat, thinking he was just some 15 year old that Shane duped and would quickly see the truth. He said he would look into the allegations. Fast forward a week (1/17) and we get no response, I tag him in the chat and he leaves. Hulen reads him, by which point he adds a friend, Jhb. This person claims I am harassing his client, and an argument starts. This person then adds another agent (that's what these people call themselves), ExtractingBirdy. Birdy claims the same thing, and I try explaining to both what is happening. However they keep trying to start unrelated ad hominem arguments, instead of addressing what I have to say. Eventually they say they "have to close the chat" and to "DM them if I have further questions", all leaving the chat. The chat export will be attached.

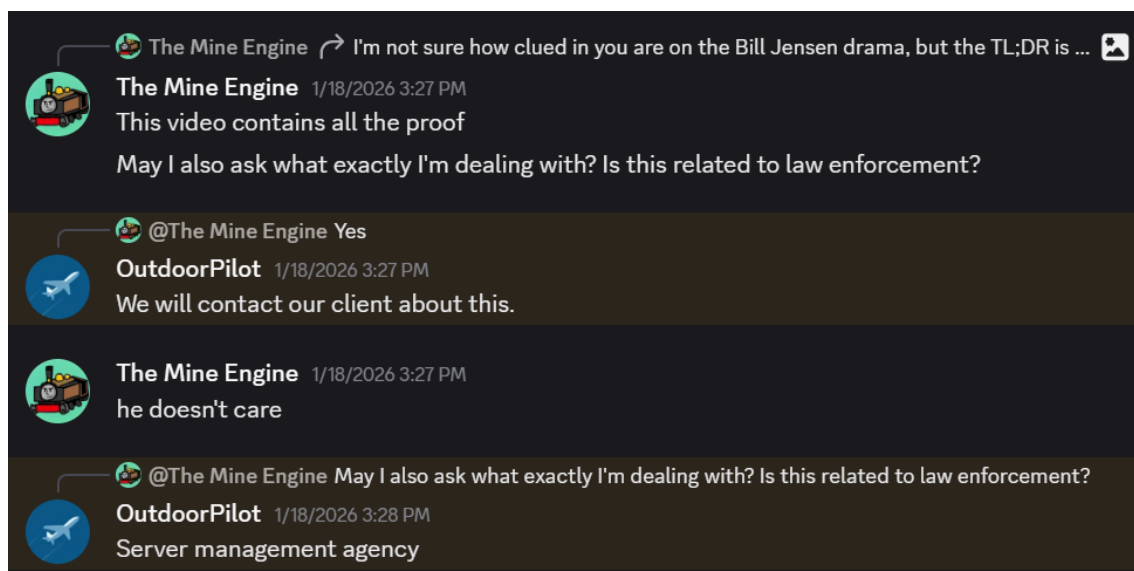

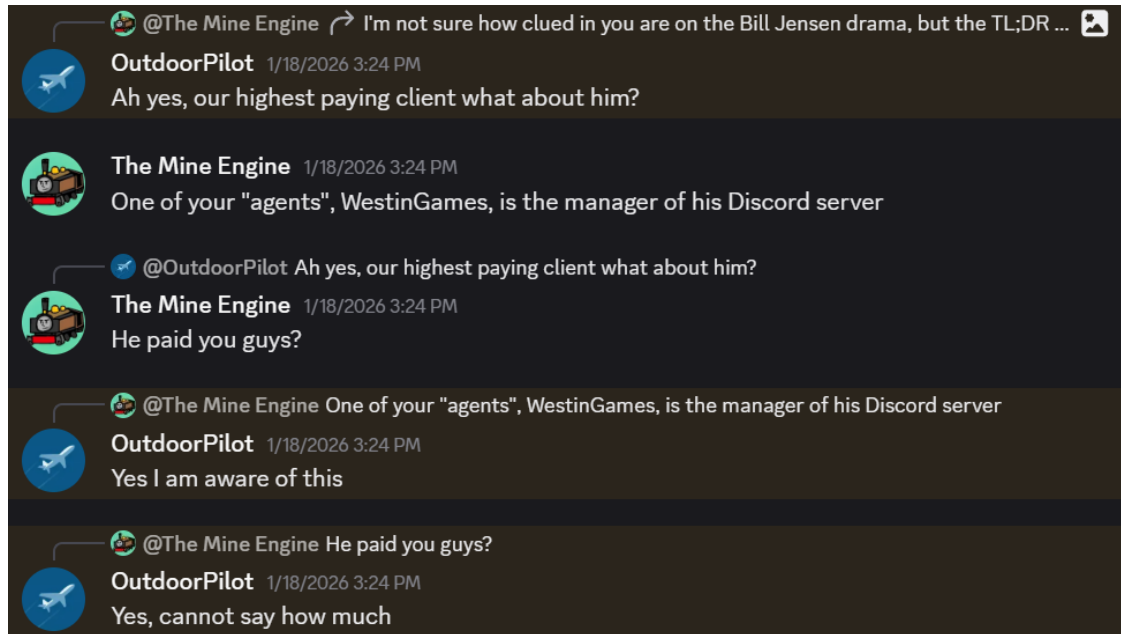

Their DMs are closed. I look around and eventually come across their Discord server, Netherboat Network. Already we feel these people are shady, so I join the server in hopes of more information. There is also another Discord/Minecraft server, EruptiaMC, which I join and then leave as nothing was there. This will be important later.

I managed to get in contact with agent Jhb around midnight, where he again tries to argue with me, this time accusing me of stalking Westin. Why? For joining the EruptiaMC Discord for a minute and leaving. There is a back and forth, which ends when I bring up the allegations on Shane. Almost immediately after Westin DMs me, saying that he does not appreciate "being stalked" and says I am violating his boundaries. I respond with the same thing I told Jhb, and he blocks me. My chats with both are attached.

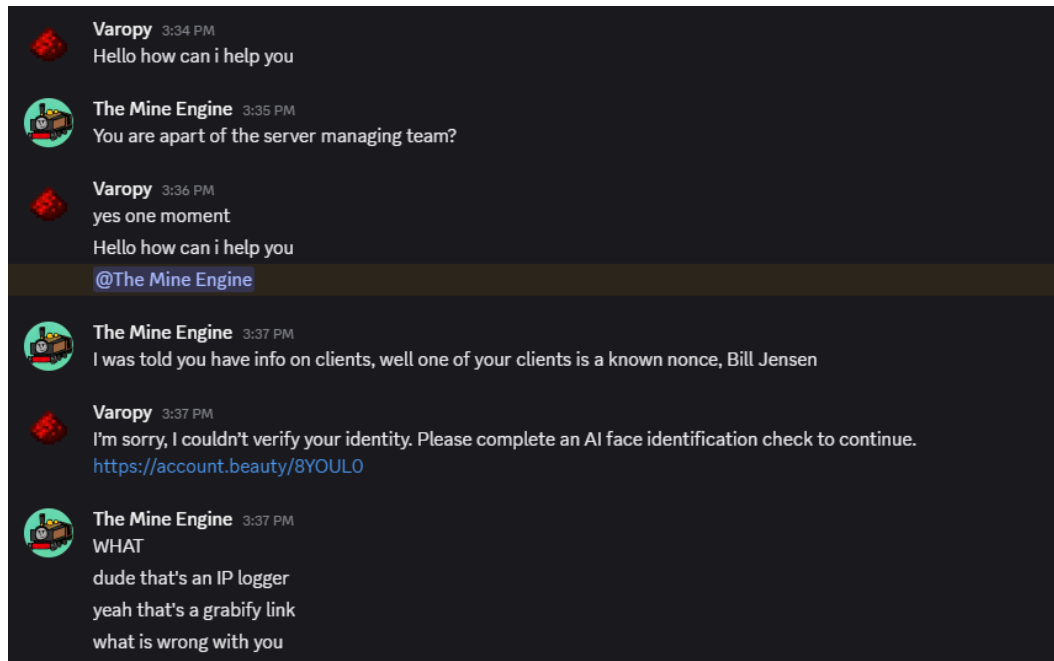

The next day (1/18) Jhb responded to me, again trying to start an argument. He once again accuses me of stalking, because I joined his server after he told me to DM him. When I disprove this he says he has to redirect me to another agent, AydenC77, and has been told to "stop answering any questions".

I message this other agent and tell him what's happening. Almost immediately he says he will "not take this kind of abuse", that I am "disrespecting their founder" and redirected me to another agent, OutdoorPilot, telling me he is the "complaints department". He blocked me afterwards, and at some point deleted all of his messages. This chat will be attached.

OutdoorPilot was the only agent that did not blatantly lie to my face. He actually gave responses that told me what I was dealing with, including what agency they were. Notably, he revealed that Shane is paying them for a server, to the point he is their highest-paying client.

After our conversation he directed me to another agent, Varopy, to give my feedback, saying he is part of the "server management team". I message him, and he sends me a Grabify IP grabber, I recognize the link and call him out, to which he blocks me and deletes the messages. This chat, and the one with OutdoorPilot, will be attached.

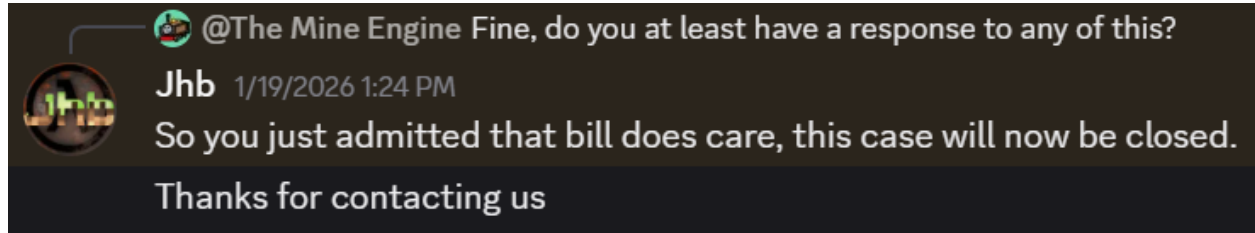

I go back to OutdoorPilot with this, and he says the agent will be warned. I ask further on what kind of agency is being run, to which I am told he cannot answer that question, but to go to another agent, Carrillo, for answers.

I DM this agent and am greeted with a response in Spanish. I ask if he can speak English, to which he responds with AI. At this point I'm very curious for answers, so I just go with it. The conversation is fairly basic but will be attached for archival purposes.

Later that day a friend sent me images of Carrillo on Shane's server, speaking with normal English. I confront him over this, to which he goes quiet and at some point deletes the messages. I exported the chat however, so these messages are all archived.

The next day (1/19) Jhb messages me again, this time saying they received a complaint about me for stalking an agent from upper management, likely Carrillo. I tell him what happened, and then change the subject back to Shane, asking why they are giving a known nonce a platform. He tries to play dumb, saying he is no longer associated with Westin. I try pushing further, sending drive links to some of Shane's actions, asking why he has accepted a client like this. I am given the only sort of response about Shane from any agent in this interaction, when he says the usual Jensonite nonsense, about how Shane didn't mean to play gore and CSAM on the mediashares, how he has ADHD, how it isn't his fault, etc. I send him several screenshots of people claiming to have been exposed to gore and porn for the first time by Shane's stream, and am also dismissed. I sent a drive file of the time on the 1/16/24 stream where Shane played CSAM despite 20+ minutes of warning, and am responded to with this.

After this I was blocked. DM conversations end after this point.

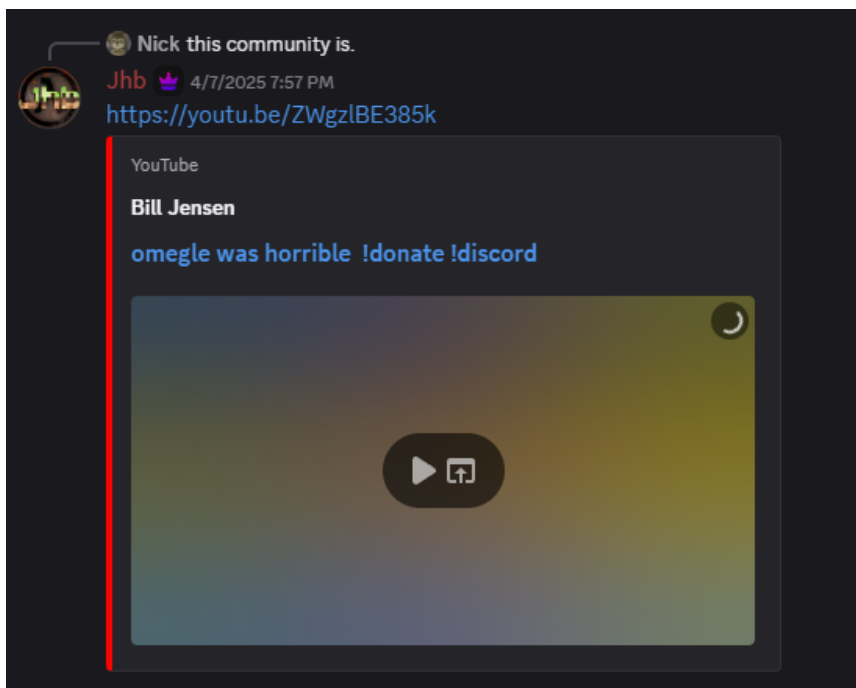

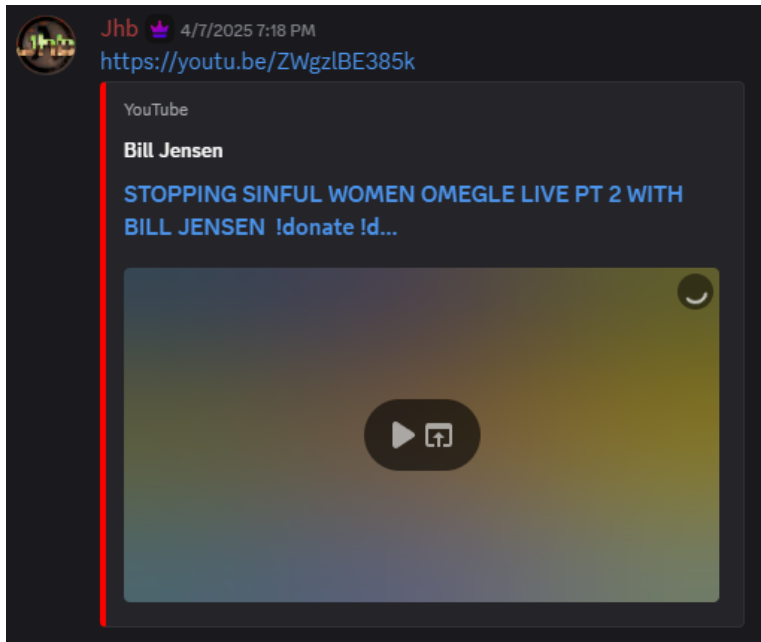

The Netherboat Network

On paper, the Netherboat Network, also known as OpenGen (server IP netherboat.net, version 1.21.11) is a fairly generic Minecraft server opened in September 2024, which is managed by the same people that run Shane's current Discord server, to the point where Shane himself played it on the 12/21/25 stream. Upon further investigation however it appears to be a front for more illicit activities.

Upon joining the Discord server, despite having over 1.5k members, is entirely dead, with an average of about 20 messages per day in the general chat. Notably, pinging the mods is punishable by a 7-day timeout. Sound familiar?

As stated previously I had only joined the server to be able to DM Jhb and ExtractingBirdy. Upon being further encountered by their shady behaviour I did a bit of digging. Apparently, these people have known Shane since at least January 2025, and are very likely to have extended their hand to him for a new server, supported by some information I was told by someone in Virus' server, and things said by agents in the group chat.

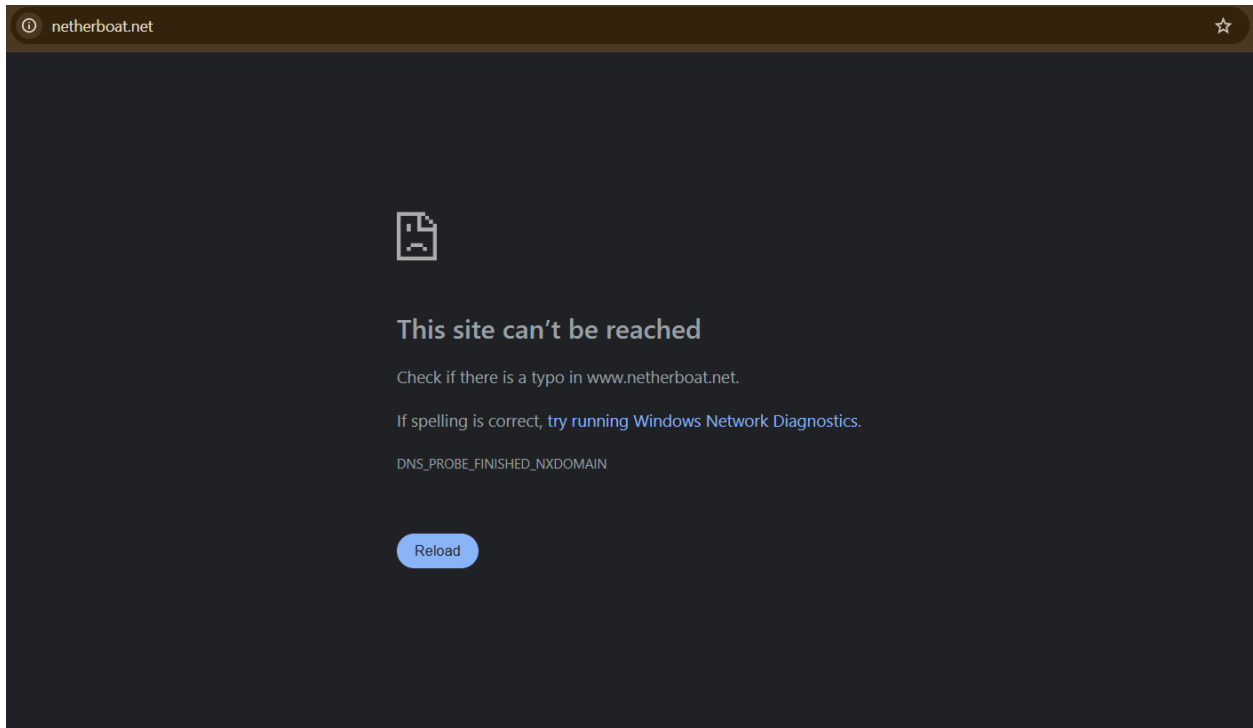

These messages come from the Netherboat discord, and have been archived in case they are deleted.

By this point I'm sure you're wondering, "why does this Minecraft server group want anything to do with Bill Jensen, an irrelevant, disgraced streamer hated by all his former associates and with too many controversies to count?" And to answer that, some further digging is needed.

Already the Netherboat Network seems suspicious, seeming to pose as a Minecraft server, but in reality being a cover for a Discord server management org. Seems illicit.

When searched up the first result for the server is a Minecraft.buzz listing \(archive\) of it. It included a website, which is, oddly enough, down.

Additionally, a Minecraft Server List listing \(archive\) for the server claims it to be offline, despite the server's active status.

Also important are these two reviews located at the bottom of the Minecraft.buzz page. They describe the server owners creating fake accounts to spam invites to people, while banning the word invite from their servers, likely to cover up.

This servers owner and admins create fake accounts to spam people invites to the server. The server that will censor words like "invite" because they know what they're doing. Atleast make the server good if you're going to do this. It's hot trash and it needs to be deleted

Netherdragon871 Says:

I am writing this review soley so you can see this, Netherboat! This server sucks. I can't go 30 seconds without getting an invite from a bot account called "Hypixelstylegen" or whatnot, which takes me to this server. This server isn't even good! Mark my words, I will have it either taken down, or at least stop the invites for good. (I even get muted for aaying the word "invite" so they obviously know what they are doing)

All of this is further supported by a listing on Best Minecraft Servers \(archive\), which has a review which backs up the two above, claiming the owners use the server to promote things, alongside one of the owners making fake reviews for their own server.

This is an amazing server!

Also on this listing is a menu that says the server is offline, however this is likely an older version of the server and should not be counted.

The entire aspect of the admins spamming invites and giving a hassle to those who call it out is again supported by a Reddit comment on a post promoting the server (archive).

Everydayisnothesame • 1y ago
So that's what it was. I got so confused when I got like 5 random invites from him, ts kinda scared me. When I said about it in the chat admin called me a "stupid skitzo" and told me to take my pills tho, that wasn't a great experiance.

I'll deal with that admin. One of the admins trolls players.

Going even further shows one of the admins, WestinGames, once again spreading fake reviews to promote the server (archive).

I think I might have found the most popular skygen on Minecraft Bedrock, this server averages 75-100 players daily. Here is how to join:

- Friend RealWhising
- Wait a minute
- Open friends list and join Openden

Interestingly, both this and the Reddit comment above come from the same day, which is also about when the server opened up.

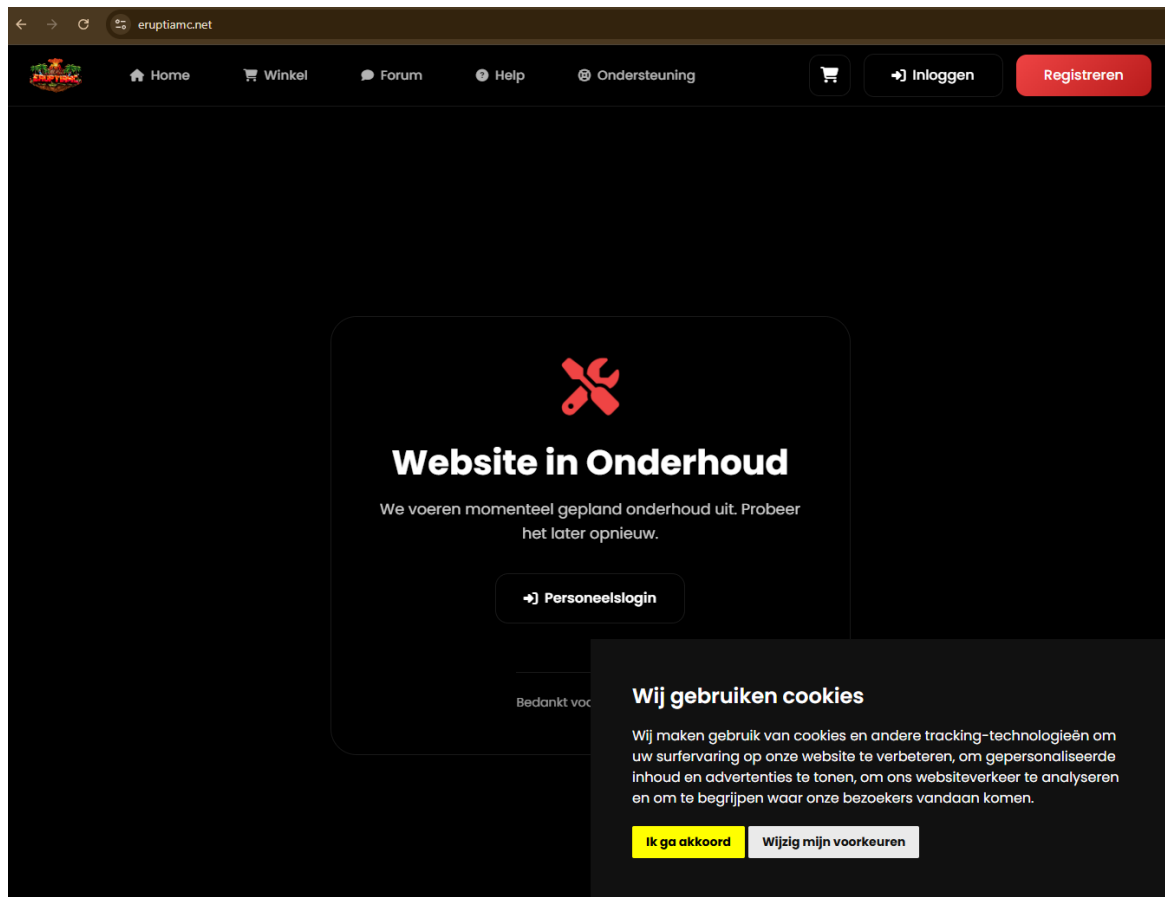

With all this in mind, what is the true purpose of the Netherboat Network?

My answer would be that it's a data harvesting group. Considering the shady behavior from these so called agents, their constant fake promotion of the server, alongside banning people who question it, it seems as though the server is used as a front for this management group, which in turn scrapes the data from the Minecraft and Discord servers they operate (such as IP addresses). It is very likely that they then sell this data forward, to god knows who. It also needs to be remembered that one of the agents blatantly sent me an IP grabber.

EruptiaMC

The previously mentioned EruptiaMC, of which Shanecord server owner WestinGames is an admin, is also worth talking about. It is a Minecraft server similar to Netherboat that is yet to open up, however it arouses the same suspicions that Netherboat does.

Their website \(archive\), while “running”, is down like the Netherboat website. Not very appropriate for an up-and-coming server, is it? Oddly, it is also set in Dutch.

Their Discord server follows a very similar pattern to the Netherboat one. Started in September 2024 it has over 1,600 members (more than Netherboat at 1,500+), yet the same lack of activity. Stranger still is that the server seems to have a large Muslim population. They also removed the invite link on Google after I joined and left.

Upon checking their website on Whois \(archive\), it is even more surprising than the one for Netherboat. It is located in India.

In my opinion, all of this lends credence to the data harvester theory.

Final Thoughts

It is shameful yet unsurprising that Shane Boyle would sign on to a group that very likely harvests the data from his remaining audience. My claim of Shane hating and not caring about his audience in my speech on his old Discord is echoed here.

If you are still in the new Shanecord I highly suggest you leave, as stated by Calbon in my server it is very much possible your data is being scraped and sold in that server, to the benefit of more nefarious actors.
